“The Economic Outlook in the U.S. and Canada: What to Expect in 2018”

Both the U.S. and Canada are continuing to see positive economic growth but there are increasing signs of inflation in the market and on-going uncertainty on trade, tariffs and wages. What will 2018 bring for the economies in Canada and the U.S.? Join us for a breakfast panel discussion on the economic outlook with perspectives offered by Michael Dolega, Senior Economist of TD Economics, Toronto, Canada and Alan Clayton-Matthews, associate professor in the School of Policy Studies and Urban Affairs and the Department of Economics at Northeastern University.
